Welcome!

10 YEARS OF KEEPING IT REEL...

Thank you for supporting the 2013 DC Shorts Film Festival. In our landmark 10th year, we are pleased to showcase 153 films and 6 screenplays from 23 different countries. The amazing growth and success of DC Shorts has earned us a reputation as “one of the most influential film festivals” from Moviemaker Magazine, and Best Film Festival by the readers of the Washington City Paper year after year.

DC Shorts has always been proud to feature truly independent films and filmmakers. New technology is constantly changing the way films are created — from cell phone cameras to new editing packages, access to filmmaking is within everyone’s reach. Our festival has proven time and time again that great film is no longer just from Hollywood, but from everyone and everywhere.

Technology has also changed the way we watch films. This year, we have expanded our Online Film Festival to include 120 films that are available to watch from any computer or smartphone during the festival week.

So butter up your popcorn, get nice and comfy — and enjoy the movies! And don’t rush out of the theater after the screening — many showcases feature a Q&A session with the filmmakers who are visiting the District from around the globe. Meet them and show your appreciation.

Jon Gann
Festival Director

FROM THE FILM COMMISSIONER

Congratulations to the DC Shorts Film Festival for producing a decade of excellence in programming short films for movie goers in the Washington metropolitan area and beyond. No doubt, once again the festival will bring the best in shorts to the nation’s capital. This festival demonstrates that the District is not only the seat of government but the destination of choice for film, television and new media.

While at the festival, we invite you to discover the creativity and talent of the local film community. From comedies to dramas, animations to documentaries, you will see what the DC area has to offer viewing audiences and filmmakers. We have state-of-the-art facilities just waiting to audition for a role in your production, a plethora of diverse locations all around the city, and many other exciting resources, we hope that your next project will bring you right back here, to the nation’s capital.
